

DCPS Title I Parent and Family Engagement Info Sheet

Families are our most important partners. In Title I schools, DCPS has made specific commitments to strong family engagement practices in alignment with district policy and federal law for Title I schools.

What are Title I Parent and Family Engagement Resources?

- District Policy: This document outlines DCPS' commitment to family engagement in Title I Schools.
- School Policy: This document outlines each Title I school's commitment to family engagement.
- School Compact: This document outlines the roles of families and educators at each Title I school in establishing and maintaining a collaborative partnership.

What does this mean for families?

- Each year, families will hear from their principal about school goals, programs, and how the school uses Title I funding.
- Families help to write the district and school's policies for parent and family engagement.
- Families are asked for their input in creating the school's Comprehensive School Plan.
- Schools have ongoing, meaningful communication with families about the school and student learning.
- Families can reach out to their principal to find out more about their school's Title I Policy, Compact or how Title I funds are spent to support student success through family engagement.
