Anti-Discrimination Policy: Students

I. PURPOSE AND SCOPE

The District of Columbia Public Schools (DCPS) is committed to ensuring every student feels loved, challenged, and prepared to positively influence society and thrive in life by providing rigorous and inclusive learning environments for all students.

To meet this commitment, DCPS is focused on creating an environment in which we eliminate opportunity gaps, interrupt institutional bias, and remove barriers to academic and social success, particularly for students of color. To promote an equitable environment free of discrimination, DCPS will provide access, inclusion, and affirmation, offering the most support where the greatest disparities have persisted. DCPS is also committed to providing a discrimination-free environment for staff and visitors. The DCPS Notice of Non-Discrimination and contact information for submitting inquiries and filing complaints is available at <https://dcps.dc.gov/non-discrimination>.

This policy conveys DCPS' prohibition on discrimination of all kinds and discusses various forms of discrimination and protected traits; it is focused on the rights of students. This policy rescinds and supersedes all previous policy, memoranda, and guidance promulgated by DCPS on this subject matter.

1. Discrimination Based on Race, Color, or National Origin

DCPS does not tolerate discrimination based on race, color, or national origin. Discrimination on the basis of race, color, or national origin is any behavior that discriminates against an individual based on:

- The country, world region, or place where a person's ancestors come or are perceived to come from;
- A person's immigration or citizenship status;
- A person's complexion, including treating someone differently based on their skin tone;

- A person’s actual or perceived shared ancestry or ethnic characteristics, including membership in a religion that may be perceived to exhibit such characteristics (such as Hindu, Jewish, Muslim, and Sikh individuals).

Discrimination on the basis of race, color, or national origin can take many forms, including ethnic or ancestral slurs, taunts, stereotypes, or name calling. An individual can also be harassed for how they look (including their features), dress, or speak in ways linked to ethnicity or ancestry. It can also include racially motivated threats, attacks, or other hateful conduct.

As an anti-racist school district, DCPS commits to overcoming systemic racism and intersectional forms of oppression. DCPS staff commits to being anti-racist by shifting individual identity and mindsets and practice, as well as collective culture and policy development. DCPS is committed to taking conscious and deliberate action to combat individual and institutional racial inequity by ensuring that all students have equitable access to a quality education, resources, support, and programs. DCPS will work to provide access, inclusion, and affirmation, offering the most support where the greatest disparities have persisted. DCPS will address disparities in curriculum development, testing, discipline, staff interaction, and the identification of students with disabilities. By incorporating social-emotional learning, culturally responsive practices, and ongoing anti-racist professional development for staff, DCPS will ensure that all students and staff feel loved, welcomed, challenged, and prepared every day.

2. Discrimination Based on Sex, Sexual Orientation, Gender Identity, or Expression⁶

DCPS does not tolerate discrimination based on sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, or gender expression. Discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation may take the form of homophobic remarks, sexual orientation-based harassment, or violence.⁷ It can include discrimination on the basis of pregnancy, childbirth, related medical conditions, breastfeeding, or reproductive health decisions.⁸

a. Athletics

All athletic programs must provide equal opportunities for all students. Students must be allowed to participate in activities, such intramural and interscholastic athletics, in a manner that is consistent with their gender identity.

b. Breastfeeding

Students have the right to breastfeed their child in any location, public or private, where they have the right to be with their child without respect to whether the parent’s breast or any part of it is uncovered during or incidental to the breastfeeding of their child. DCPS must allow students the opportunity to make up any missed work due to breastfeeding-related absence from class.

⁶ For more information on students who are transitioning, please see the DCPS Transgender and Gender-Nonconforming Policy Guidance or the DCPS LBGQT family guide. Both documents contain resources including a school planning tool that can support students as they transition.

⁷ For more information, please see the DCPS Transgender and Gender-Nonconforming Policy Guidance or the DCPS LBGQT family guide. Both documents contain resources including a school planning tool that can support students as they transition.

⁸ See D.C. Code § 2-1401.05(a).

c. Dress Codes

Students have the right to dress in accordance with their gender identity within the constraints of the school's dress code, and dress codes must be enforced equally and fairly to all students regardless of their gender or any physical characteristics. Additionally, school staff may not impose subjective or personal opinions on student dress (for example, staff remarking that a student's pants are "too tight"). Under no circumstance shall students who commit dress code violations be given in-school or out-of-school suspensions or otherwise be removed from the classroom or be barred from entering school or participating in extra-curricular activities and programs. School dress codes must be gender neutral. For example, schools cannot require that "girls wear skirts." This applies to regular school days in addition to special events such as prom.

d. Names and Pronouns

Students have the right to be addressed by the name and pronoun that corresponds to their gender identity. A court-ordered name or gender change is not required, and the student does not need to change their official records. Intentional failure to address a student by their preferred name or pronoun may constitute discriminatory conduct.

e. Pregnant/Parenting Students

Pregnant students must be allowed to continue participating in classes and extracurricular activities. DCPS must allow pregnant students to choose whether or not they want to participate in special instruction programs or classes for pregnant students. Students must be allowed to make these decisions at will and without pressure from DCPS staff. Any alternative programs must provide the same types of academic programming and, where applicable, special education and related services as the school's regular program. Pregnant students must not be required to submit a doctor's note to participate in activities unless the submission of a doctor's note is required for all participating students. DCPS must provide reasonable adjustments such as seating or desk adjustments, elevator access, or frequent trips to the bathroom when necessary and related to the pregnancy. DCPS must allow students the opportunity to make up any missed work from pregnancy-related absences.

f. Restrooms/Facilities

Students have the right to have safe access to restrooms and facilities that match their gender identity. Students can use the same bathrooms as their peers unless they request alternate accommodations. Transgender or gender non-conforming students may not be forced to use single user bathrooms as their only option.

3. Discrimination Based on Disability

DCPS does not tolerate discrimination the basis of disability. Discrimination on the basis of disability is any behavior that discriminates against an individual based on their actual or perceived disability.⁹ Disability discrimination may interfere with the ability of students with disabilities to receive the

4. Discrimination Based on Language or English Proficiency

DCPS does not tolerate discrimination based on language or English proficiency. DCPS provides¹⁰ equal access and participation in public services, programs, and activities for residents of the District of Columbia who cannot or have limited capacity to speak, read, or write English. If someone contacts DCPS and they cannot speak, read, write, or understand English, they have the right to:

- Request and receive interpreter services at no cost;
- Request and receive vital documents in their language at no cost; and
- Make a complaint if denied any service.

B. Investigations and Consequences for Prohibited Behaviors

DCPS is required to create a nondiscriminatory environment and provide remedies when instances of discrimination occur. If a student, staff, or school visitor is accused of engaging in prohibited behavior or retaliation, the DCPS Comprehensive Alternative Resolution & Equity (CARE) Team will follow the investigation procedures detailed in current DCPS grievance policies.¹¹ If a violation is found, consequences will be administered in accordance with that policy and all applicable local and federal law and regulations. Through investigation and resolution, the DCPS CARE Team will seek to make any aggrieved party whole and to remedy systemic failures. Resolutions may result in policy change, service provision, and/or disciplinary action against the respondent. Disciplinary action will be administered in accordance with the DCPS student discipline policies.¹²

C. Prevention

Given the importance of preventing and proactively addressing discrimination in our schools, DCPS:

- Creates an environment where all students feel loved, challenged, and prepared;
- Provides ongoing anti-racist, anti-discrimination training for DCPS staff;
- Provides social-emotional professional development for DCPS staff;
- Provides professional development around culturally responsive pedagogy and practices for staff;
- Incorporates anti-discrimination and harassment programs and activities in schools and other DCPS locations;
- Encourages students, caregivers, and school visitors to report discrimination and harassment;
- Requires school staff to report discrimination and harassment;
- Enforces a district-wide protocol for responding to incidents of hate and bias no matter the intent; and
- Conducts climate assessments to determine if discriminatory environments exist and addresses them when appropriate.

D. Resources

DCPS is available to support and respond to claims of discrimination, and the DCPS Equity Strategy and Programming Team works to create an environment in which DCPS eliminates opportunity gaps, interrupts institutional bias, and removes barriers to academic and social success. Each school also has a social worker/mental health team that can provide support to students experiencing discriminatory treatment and identify community resources. In addition, academic support (for example, tutoring) is available to students following an instance of discrimination or harassment.

V. POLICY IMPLEMENTATION REQUIREMENTS

All DCPS employees are required to comply with the requirements set forth in this policy. Implementation of this policy will be reinforced by anti-discrimination, Title IX, and mandated reporter trainings provided to staff as well as ongoing monitoring and oversight by the DCPS Care Team. Trainings will discuss how to identify discrimination and create a discrimination-free environment and staff's reporting obligations.

DCPS is committed to serving every student with equity, excellence, transparency, and accountability and creating an environment for students that is free of discrimination and harassment. Questions or concerns regarding this policy and its implementation should be directed to the DCPS CARE Team at dcps.care@k12.dc.gov.
