OPPORTUNITIES AT

DCPS

2017 - 2018
SCHOOL YEAR CALENDAR

Dear Friends,

It's only my first year as Chancellor at DC Public Schools, but I have already seen so many incredible things happening at every school across this district (and I'm visiting all 115 of them in my first six months)! The level of talent I've seen in our students makes me proud to lead DCPS at such an exciting time.

DCPS is on the rise for so many reasons. We have amazing educators who teach our students and lead our schools every single day. We have dedicated staff who support students outside of the classroom. We have involved parents who support their schools and continue student learning at home. We have vibrant and diverse communities and partners who work with us to keep DCPS rising in everything from graduation rates to student satisfaction to enrollment. When we work together, we ensure that every student in DC has access to an excellent education.

One of the most important ways DCPS ensures that excellent education is through the opportunities we give our students. Opportunities like career-ready internships where high school students get real-world experience before they even graduate high school; opportunities like dual-language programs where students develop fluency in a second language while learning core subjects like math and science; opportunities like our study abroad program, which sends hundreds of 8th- and 11th-grade students on international trips at no cost to them; and opportunities like extracurricular activities, which give our students the chance to find their passion in things like athletics, robotics, activism, and the arts. Students in every corner of the district have access to these and so many more opportunities, ensuring equity for our young people regardless of background or zip code.

In this calendar, you'll see just a few examples of our students pursuing opportunities at DCPS. In the coming year, I'm excited to see even more of our students broadening their horizons and deepening their understanding of not just themselves, but of the world around them.

The 2017-2018 School Year will be a great one for DCPS. Through our pursuit of equity and excellence, I can't wait to see how our students, parents, educators, and communities keep DCPS rising!

Sincerely,

Antwan Wilson
Chancellor
